How should your health leaders hereabouts manage £100 million?

HEALTH leaders in the West of Nottingham are inviting their residents to attend two public events about how to shape the future of health services where they live.

The events have been organised to find out how people think the organisation that plans and buys their local health services should respond to the latest challenges facing the NHS.

It comes as the government calls for local health bodies to engage their public in a 'Call To Action' to see what health services people value and why.

The events are informal and free and will give people a chance to meet the people who make decisions about the way health services are delivered in their communities. The events are happening on:

- Tuesday, October 15, 6pm - 8pm
Highfields Fire Station, Hassocks Lane, Beeston, NG9 2GQ
- Thursday, October 17, 1pm - 3pm
Durban House, DH Lawrence Centre, Mansfield Road, Eastwood, NG16 3DZ

Dr Guy Mansford, Clinical Lead and Accountable Officer for NHS Nottingham West Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG), said: "We know the NHS is facing huge challenges, both locally and nationally. This includes more people living longer with complex conditions, an increased demand on services and greater public expectation. That is why it's important for us to understand the needs of our patient population to ensure high quality, patient-focused services. These events will provide the perfect opportunity to participate in our future decision making.

"Our CCG is led by local GPs and other health professionals who are responsible for the planning and purchasing of almost £100 million worth of health services for patients living in places such as Stapleford, Beeston, Bramcote, Chilwell, Eastwood and Kimberley," said Dr Mansford. "Everyone is welcome to attend the events – we would be grateful if you could register your place so that we are aware of numbers," he added.

Light refreshments will be available 30 minutes prior to the start time.
